Harvey after James H. Hayes of New York himself almost starved, revey being lost. The two started out without food, water or guide, down the Hermit Trail and got lost. Hayes managed to find his way back to the

ANNOUNCES HIS CANDIDACY

HON. HORACE MITCHELL.

Horace Mitchell Will Seek Republican Congressional Nomination For First Maine District

Hon. Horace Mitchell, of Kittery Point today formally announced his candidate for the Republican nomination for Congressman in the first Maine district to succeed Congressman Asher Hinds, who contemplates retiring owing to impaired health. The announcement was made at the gathering of the Republican committee of York County and was hailed with much enthusiasm. Mr. Mitchell's announcement is as follows:

Kittery, Me., September 8, 1915.
To the Voters of the First Congressional District:

At the request of many of my friends in the District I have decided to become a candidate for the nomination of Representative to Congress from this District in the Primaries to be held next June.

My platform will be the platform adopted at the next Republican National Convention and the next Republican State Convention, which platform, I trust, will be sufficiently broad to unite all factions of our party, to revise the tariff, by commission, or otherwise, so as to protect the wage earners of our land, and to so increase our army and navy as to guarantee the protection of our citizens in their lives, liberty and property and command the respect of our country at home and abroad.

I make no special claim, except my long legislative experience, for the nomination as to my qualifications over and above hundreds of other business men in the District, but if my candidacy commands itself to your good judgment, I shall value very highly your influence and support.

Very respectfully,
HORACE MITCHELL.

Very few men are better known throughout Maine than Mr. Mitchell and the announcement of his candidacy means that he will make a strong contest for the nomination as well as election.

He was born in Kittery, Me., March 12, 1857, and was educated in the public schools of his native town and the New Hampton Literary Institute and Business college. Taught in the 1911 to meet the increasing business of the house.

In 1901 acquired the business of the late Frank E. Rowell of Kittery and since that time has devoted more or less time to the organization of corporations under the Maine law, and is credited with organizing more companies than any other person in the United States.

A member of the Maine House of Representatives in 1891, 1893, 1911 and 1913; a member of the Senate in 1895; appointed by the Governor of Maine on a committee to inspect the state treasurer's accounts in 1897 and 1899, and in the latter served as Chairman of the committee. Postmaster at Kittery Point for twenty years. Member of the school committee of Kittery

YALE'S FOOTBALL PROSPECTS BRIGHTER THAN FOR MANY YEARS

New York, Sept. 10.—Yale's football prospects are brighter just now than for many years and the Yale enthusiasts are sure that the Bulldogs will come back into his own this year.

Yale was hit by graduation last June—and hit it pretty hard. A number of players, but Yale isn't groggy as a result. With the exception of Captain Talbot Yale doesn't seem to have lost any man that she will miss—or mourn. The absentees were among the best Yale had last year—but Yale's best in 1914 was not up to the Yale standard.

Lack of real footballers handicapped Coach Frank Henkey last year—and it was that that enabled Harvard to give Yale the worse beating it has suffered in all its football history. But this year things are different.

The Yale backfield for 1915 seems sure to gain fame as one of the greatest in the country: Alex Wilson, captain, is a certainly for quarterback; Guernsey will be at left half, Scoville, a terrific line smasher will play the other half and the wonderful Harry LeGore will be at full.

Wilson and LeGore were regulars last year; Scoville and Guernsey were first string substitutes. Yet the four played together often enough to perfect the team work, and with Henkey to school them further in the intricacies of the game, and with the quiet ranking as one of the very speediest in the game, there's a promise that some brilliant and dazzling plays will feature the operations at the Yale backfield.

LeGore will do the punting and the deep kicking as he did last year unless Henkey finds a tool who is better—which seems almost outside of the range of possibilities. Wilson and Guernsey boot with power and accuracy—and can do the relief work when ever called upon.

Brown and Hillman, ends and Conroy and White, linemen are among the men that Yale lost in June. But none of them ranked as stars. Knowles and Almsworth also were graduated. Both were good halfbacks—but Scoville and Guernsey look good enough to hold down their jobs.

Henkey has left from the 1914 team enough linemen to form the nucleus of a stone wall line this year. The sophomore class of 1915 will send to him as candidates at least ten men who are sure of being in the battle for the line jobs.

"The backfield always has been my greatest worry," said Henkey. "I always feel that when I have a powerful backfield that I can build a strong line in front of it. And that is how I feel now."

"It is too early for me to predict just now what men will make up the line because I haven't had a chance to see all the candidates in action but I am confident of the future because the material that is offered to me looks so good, naturally I am sure it will not take much work to develop it."

"I want weight in the line of course, but more than anything else I want speed. The new football rules place a premium upon speed and Yale will have speed this year above all else."

BANCROFT, PHILLIES' SENSATIONAL SHORTSTOP, IS REAL FIND OF 1915 SEASON.

Philadelphia, Sept. 11.—Frank Bancroft, the Phillies' sensational shortstop, is the greatest find of the 1915 season. His shortstop work is as sensational and fully up to the class of Maranville, the electric little short fielder of the Braves during 1914. In fact, Bancroft has kept the Quakers in the race, and if they win the championship to that lucky "find" stop, is the greatest find of the 1915 season. His shortstop work is as sensational and fully up to the class of Maranville, the electric little short fielder of the Braves during 1914. In fact, Bancroft has kept the Quakers

WITH THE SPORTS

John McGraw looks up just now as a pathetic figure in baseball; not a figure that really demands sympathy or wants it, but a figure that inspires it just the same.

The wonderful baseball machine that McGraw used up the best part of his life developing is broken; some of the old cogs are gone and others must go. To figure again as a pennant contender McGraw must build up a new machine—a task of years and one into which he cannot enter with the enthusiasm and energy that characterized his more youthful years.

The old fighting spirit of the Giant leader is gone. Rarely is he seen on the coaching lines these days. Rarely does he rush on to a ball field and verbally battle the umpires over the decisions as he did in the bygone days. The old fire has died out; McGraw seems engrossed in his reveries of other days—of glorious days when he and his team ruled supreme in the old league.

McGraw never was popular with the fans outside of New York and never was extremely popular with those in his home town. But just the same, McGraw because of what he accomplished year after year with a mediocre looking baseball outfit, was admired and lauded throughout the length and breadth of the land. He was a real baseball leader—in our opinion the greatest baseball leader in the history of the game, and one of the most spectacular figures that ever boomed along the baseball horizon.

No man has ever been more genuinely hated than John McGraw—and no one has ever been more genuinely loved.

On the ball field McGraw always has appeared to fanatics as the superlative of rowdy; off the field he is a person entirely different. And, to John McGraw's credit it shall be said that those who hate him are those who know him only as a baseball manager; those who love him are those who know him intimately.

The failure of the Giants to win the 1914 pennant hit McGraw a harder blow than he had ever before received in his long diamond career. He had won three pennants in a row. His ambition was to achieve what no other manager had ever before achieved—the winning of four straight. Right up to the last six weeks of the 1914 campaign it seemed a certainty for him. True the Braves were shooting upward with amazing speed, but it seemed they must drop back.

But the Braves didn't. They caught the Giants, went beyond and held the lead until the finish line was crossed—and McGraw was a broken hearted man. The victory of the Braves meant that his name never would be written in the baseball hall of fame as the only modern baseball leader who had led a team to four pennants in a row.

Recovering from his disappointment in 1914 the Giant leader led his team into the 1915 fight, hopeful, confident. But then, and only then did he discover that disintegration must set in. The machine no longer moved forward with mercurial precision against the opposition. It moved haltingly, hesitatingly, and often it backed up.

During the first two months of the campaign McGraw threw his whole soul and body into the effort to steady his wobbly outfit. He drove them, coaxed them. He made a dozen shifts in the arrangement of the cogs in the machine—but to no avail. The power of the machine was gone.

And then McGraw tired and worn, embittered, with the old fire burned out, with the spirit deadened, assigned himself to bench duty. For him it was useless to battle longer. He still could manage, still direct, still encourage his men—but he couldn't do the pitching for his pitchers; he couldn't do the fielding for his fielders nor the batting for his club.

McGraw is nearing his 42d birthday. That's not old as managers go, but it's rather old for a man who must start anew in his baseball life—the tearing to pieces of an old machine and the building of a new one.

McGraw may issue forth with a fine team in 1916 but the chances are against it. The old standbys of other years are about through. He will have few good veterans in 1916 to form the nucleus of a great team.

The Giants—the peerless Giants of other days are through—and no one knows it better or experiences a more stabbing pain over it than McGraw—the scrappiest, most malignant, yet without, the greatest baseball manager of this or any other decade.

BOXING NOTES

ATLAS A. A. PRESENTING GOOD CARD FOR TUESDAY.

In view of the excellent showing he made when he fought Sam McVey the clever colored heavyweight at the Atlas A. A. a few weeks ago, Sandy Ferguson jumped back into popular favor with New England boxing fans. Sandy did not belie his statements when he informed the fans that he was in condition and was out to seek new laurels in the heavyweight class. The opinion prevailed at the time that anyone else but McVey and Ferguson would today be basking in the limelight of a clean cut victory. But McVey undoubtedly the greatest heavyweight fighter in the ring today proved just a little too stiff for Sandy to make good with after his long period of absence from the ring.

Sandy will meet Battling Levinsky the busy New York heavyweight who has been dropping his man with clock like regularity. But Sandy Ferguson of next Tuesday night will prove a far different fighter than the one that met Sam McVey. Sandy needed the fight with McVey to sharpen up his judgment of distance and to accustom him to regular fighting. He got it and in his present excellent form he is expected to give Levinsky the greatest time of his life.

Sandy waxes warm when he thinks of the several chances he has allowed to slip through his fingers when he was fighting in top form. Even today he feels that he could dispose of any number of the present crop of white hopes, and it is his firm belief that Battling Levinsky will receive the first real hard set back that he has got since acquiring an international reputation in the heavyweight class when he meets him in a 12-round bout at the Atlas A. A. in Boston next Tuesday night.

Those great rivals, George Alger and "Belgian" Eddie Brown will meet in an eight round bout for welterweight honors. As they expect to settle their dispute definitely their bout should resolve into a warm battle. Young Clancy and Cy Goodwin and Young Sculler and Young Cooper will meet in six round bouts thus completing a program that looks as good as any offered by the three A. club this season. Brown and Young Clancy were both seen in this city last winter.

MILITARY MARRIAGES BY PROXY

Paris, Sept. 10.—Since the new law authorizing military marriages by proxy came into force, 700 such ceremonies have been performed.

There are several peculiar points about this law, one being that two months must elapse between the demand for an authorization for a marriage by proxy and the performance of the ceremony. One result is that in some cases by the time the proxy wedding ceremony takes place, the bridegroom has been killed on the battlefield, though the bad news has not yet reached his relatives and friends.

WILL AUSTRIA COMPLY WITH U. S. DEMANDS?

Question Now Causing Agitation in Official Circles at Washington.

Washington, Sept. 10.—President Wilson's request to Austria to recall her ambassador, Dr. Constantin Dumba, has brought about a situation which contains possibilities of extending to other diplomats of the German allies. Dr. Dumba used James F. J. Archibald, an American, bearing an American passport, as a messenger to carry a communication to the Vienna foreign office. Although it has not been called officially to the attention of this Government, the State Department understands officially that Archibald also carried a communication for Captain von Papen, military attaché of the German embassy. Secretary Lansing said today that the American Government regarded the sending of any communication in the manner which Dr. Dumba used an abuse of an American passport.

Believe Austria Will Comply

The recall of the envoy was asked for in a communication from Secretary Lansing, which Ambassador Panfiloff at Vienna probably delivered today. When a response would be received and the form it would take, was a matter of speculation, would not be necessary for Austria-Hungary to make a formal reply, but it was assumed that under the circumstances of official response—besides definite action—would be forthcoming.

Diplomats in touch with the Vienna Embassy have believed that Baron von Zedlitz, counselor of the embassy, would be made charge d'affaires, to remain until the conclusion of the war. In ordinary times the failure of a Government to send a successor to an ambassador who had been recalled would indicate its displeasure over the request. In this case however, it was pointed out that difficulties over sending a new envoy made a distinct difference.

Despite the belief in some circles that Vienna would not hesitate to comply with Secretary Lansing's request, it was admitted that a situation might arise which would have a serious effect on the relations between the two Governments. The text of the note was held closely to indicate Washington's desire to have Dr. Dumba recalled without stirring up a diplomatic issue. It was pointed out, however, that if the Vienna Foreign Office should determine to uphold the ambassador's severance of diplomatic relations would result. Such a development even if it was not followed, would seriously affect America's role of diplomatic representation for Austria-Hungary and other European belligerents.

Dr. Dumba probably will not be compelled to accept his passports, but will be permitted to remain in the United States until and await word from Vienna. If he wants to return home the United States must secure assurances of safe conduct for him from Great Britain and her allies.

Dumba-Barnstorf Meeting

New York, Sept. 10.—Dr. Constantin T. Dumba, Ambassador to the United States from Austria-Hungary, whose recall has been asked by Washington, spent a good part of last night in conference with the German Ambassador, Count von Bernstorff, at the latter's hotel. The two envoys were still there early this morning when Count von Bernstorff, an attaché of the Austrian embassy, in answer to many requests for an expression regarding the action of the United States Government made the following statement:

"The action of Mr. Lansing and the State Department had been anticipated and is no surprise to Dr. Dumba."

This was the only official comment from any representative of the Austrian embassy here up to that time. The two ambassadors went for a drive yesterday evening and dined together upon their return. Count von Bernstorff said that he intended today to go to his summer place at Cedarhurst, Long Island.

Dr. Dumba left for his summer home at Lenox, Mass., early today, according to information given out at the St. Regis. There were insistent reports, however, that Dr. Dumba had secluded himself in his auto at the hotel to avoid being pressed by newspaper men for an opinion on the diplomatic situation.

LIFE SAVERS DEMONSTRATE METHODS OF BREAKING DEATH GRIP OF DROWNING PERSON

In the accompanying illustration are shown members of the American Volunteer Life Saving association demonstrating the methods they use to break the death hold of persons who are drowning and whom they are trying to save. The demonstration was given at the Jamaica Bay Yachting club and aroused the liveliest interest among the members. Many an expert swimmer has been dragged to his death by the desperate clutch of the person he is trying to save. Professional life savers, however, quickly break these grips, and in the accompanying illustration they show how it is done.

FAST GAME TODAY AT THE PLAY GROUNDS

Walter Woods played ball yesterday on the winning Married Men's team at the U. A. C. outing, and he played a hard, fast game. He is ready for another of the same kind of games today when he appears in the Portsmouth "All Star" line-up against the Salmon Falls Manufacturing team. They are bringing a pretty fine bunch of ball players down from the little town and they will play for all there is in the game. Portsmouth played a poor game against them last Saturday, much poorer than they should have played, even if the field was far from being good. But this afternoon's game should be a different story.

The infield will probably be strengthened in one or two places, one of the props being Walter Woods. It is likely that he will play at third and those who have seen him play that position are positive that there are few in the big leagues that have anything on Walter. He can shoot a ball across the diamond to first like a bullet, and the man who beats one of his throws out can run faster than a jack rabbit. It is up to the Portsmouth fans to get out to the game and show him that we are still there in support of the home team. The game will be called at 3.00 o'clock.

Holding, bleeding, protruding or blind piles have yielded to Doan's Ointment, 50c at all stores.

WAGNERIAN STAR IN LIGHT ROLE GRAND OPERA TO MUSICAL COMEDY

Miss Cecilia Hoffman, "High Jinks," Prima Donna, Invests Part With Charm

Despite the fact that Arthur Hammerstein announces his production of "High Jinks" as a musical comedy, a thing of grand opera has crept in to the appearance of Miss Cecilia Hoffman whose double duty it is to be prima donna and light comedienne, a combination seldom tried on the American stage.

Miss Hoffman began her training at the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music, with the end in view of preparing her self particularly for Wagnerian roles, in which her instructors declared she was particularly adept, owing to her knowledge of German.

She studied for three years and then went to Berlin for a season, where the finishing touches were given to her voice. She essayed minor roles in the small companies of the Kaiser's domain and when she had been assured that she was ready for the operatic stage she returned to America and sought an interview with Oscar Hammerstein.

The impressario found great opportunities in her voice and placed her under contract with the Lexington Avenue Opera House Company. She was busy with rehearsals when the Metropolitan Opera Company snatched the inflection which put an end to Oscar Hammerstein's operatic plans, and after she had agreed to appear in musical farce or comedy for a time the elder Hammerstein transferred his contract to his son, Arthur Hammerstein and Miss Hoffman was cast for the prima donna role in "High Jinks" company. She learned to speak lines with great rapidity, and much to the astonishment of the impressario she developed a comic strain something remarkable in operatic singers.

The young woman when she is not endeavoring to arouse her audience with a comedy role, busies herself each night in the delivery of her part of the opera. "High Jinks" will be seen at the Colonial Theatre on Thursday evening, Sept. 15.

JUBILEE SINGERS

The Jubilee Singers from the Tuskegee Institute will sing at the Middle street Baptist church Sunday evening. These singers have made a reputation for themselves the country over, singing recently at both national expositions. They render the best type of plantation melody, so rich in religious suggestion. Prof. Charles W. Ward, of the Institute, will speak upon "Tuskegee and its influence upon the Negro race," an address which will not only inform concerning Booker T. Washington's most interesting school, but will throw light upon the development and progress of an important section of our people. The public is cordially invited.

Useless Worry.

Of late years there has been a tendency to represent that practically all the land in the United States suitable for farming purposes has been taken up and that the increase in population is so much greater than the increase in production of food stuffs that the time can not be far away when the question of feeding the people will be a serious one.

This paper has never accepted this view of the matter or become alarmed in the least. It has maintained, and still maintains, that so far as agriculture in this country is concerned we have merely scratched the surface and know practically nothing about working the soil to its capacity. The peoples of the Old World know how to work the land for all there is in it, but Americans slide over it in a haphazard way, for the most part, getting good returns because of the natural fertility of the soil and not as the result of intelligent agriculture. This slipshod policy is being departed from to some extent in certain parts of the country, but it is still the rule rather than the exception.

And that the supply of virgin soil is not yet exhausted is shown by the recent report of the commissioner of the general land office. According to this, there are still 279,000,000 acres of land "unappropriated and unreserved," which when the surveys are completed will be available for homesteads. Most of this land is in the far West, but the means of reaching it are far different from those of the earlier days and there will be no lack of settlers when the actual demand for them arises.

But it is well to bear in mind that it is not necessary to go west in order to engage successfully in farming. There are thousands of acres of land in the eastern states that are supposed to be "worn out," but which can be restored to fertility, and in many instances this can be done easier and cheaper than one can move to and establish himself in the West. These lands have the advantage of near markets and good roads, and, properly worked, will yield as good returns as can be secured from farming in any part of the United States.

The sum and substance of the whole matter is that there is no danger of a land famine or any other kind of famine in this country. The production of the soil is capable of being doubled over and over again, and with 279,000,000 acres yet untouched it is babyish to worry over an imaginary approach of a shortage in the food supply.

Tennessee is a "dry" state, yet the citizens of Memphis are "all het up" over the sale of liquor in that city. They complain that many saloons are running as openly as if the city were under license, and are moving to oust some of the city officials from office for their failure to enforce the laws. It is plain that public sentiment is not behind the prohibitory law in Memphis, and where that condition prevails prohibition is a miserable farce, south, north, east or west.

Mrs. J. Ogden Armour of Chicago has proved that millionaire women are not necessarily mollycoddles or cowards. Two burglars entered her home the other night and she put up a fight that kept both of them busy for a time. She says if there had been only one she could have disposed of him without difficulty. The woman is made of good stuff and none can fail to admire her pluck.

The sentence of a Massachusetts man to imprisonment for life in 1902 for murdering a young woman and his own little son has been commuted to eighteen years, and he is now eligible to "immediate parole," which is expected to be "immediately" forthcoming. Surely this is a fast age, especially the road that leads from the state prisons to the open.

That the president is preparing to fight "pork barrel" bills will be unwelcome news in many quarters, but if the report proves true it will be most acceptable news to the general public, which is becoming tired of erecting elaborate postoffice buildings at "the corners" for the glory of some backwoods congressman.

The agricultural fair season is here and the fast horses and big pumpkins, vegetable and political, are at the front. It is a happy time for the farmers and their friends, in spite of the claim that the agricultural fair does not hold quite the place in the public estimation that it once did.

Senator Simmons predicts that there will be no extra session of Congress unless something comes up that is not now in sight. It is to be hoped he is right, but the country is willing to leave the matter wholly to the judgment of President Wilson.

In many sections farmers are complaining that their chickens are being killed in large numbers by automobiles. But where are the chickens when thus killed? The automobile with all its vagaries has not yet invaded the hen yards.

Among the bumper crops of the country are those of freshmen in the schools and colleges.

CZAR TAKES PLACE OF GRAND DUKE. NICHOLAS AS HEAD OF RUSSIAN ARMY.

CZAR AND GRAND DUKE NICHOLAS

In a message to President Poincaré of France Emperor Nicholas announced that he has placed himself in command of all the Russian armies. Nominally the czar is supreme commander of the Russian forces. It is understood that when war started he was ambitious to head his troops in the field. He was persuaded, however, to give the command to his cousin, the Grand Duke Nicholas. Lacking military prestige and a commanding personality, it was felt the czar should yield to the grand duke, who is a giant, is one of the finest cavalry officers in Russia and is a commander of long experience. His executive ability was apparent in the closing operations of the Russo-Japanese war and in his successful efforts against revolutionists. He is the strong man of the Romanoffs. Frequently he has been mentioned as the probable regent if Russia should ever meet one in his lifetime. Last winter it was rumored in Berlin that the czar wanted peace, but that he was overruled by the grand duke, who is said to have insisted the war be fought to a victorious finish. To the Russian people the grand duke has been the hero of the war, and, despite reverses to the czar's troops, the commander in chief has been a national idol. His mastery of defense of Warsaw last winter stamped him as a fighter and strategist of first ability. When the Russians then were badly pressed at Kerassio and Lublin his generals counseled retreat. He decided to go on. His judgment was vindicated in the capture of Lemberg shortly afterward. The message of Emperor Nicholas to President Poincaré does not make it clear whether Grand Duke Nicholas has been superseded by the emperor. During the last few weeks there has been severe criticism of the conduct of the war by the Russian authorities. The minister of war, General Soukhomiroff, resigned, and the formation of a coalition government has been under discussion.

PEOPLES' OPINION

Another One Heard From

Mr. Editor:

The writer has attended many of the numbers held annually by Veterans of the different New England cities, and must say that no body of men make a better appearance than the local boys. It is true that they do not win many first prizes but they can always be depended on to make the winners hustle. If they received the support and encouragement from our people that is accorded the crews in other places there would be a different story to tell. Owing to the peculiar construction of the home tub and the intricate make-up of the machine parts, cross winds and humidity have a peculiar influence on its thrower power. The wind might be true of other machines. It is a well known fact that many of the machines are charged with a chemical preparation before the play-outs. The density of the streamer in comparison with the stream from the Portsmouth tub is quite apparent. It is therefore reasonable to suppose that the difference is caused by some influence. It is not the intention of the writer to butt into the affairs of the local vets but will, however, suggest that before the next play-out a composition composed of the following formula, i. e., 1 qt. of sour milk, 1-8 gill of vitrol, 1 peck of potato chips and 3 ounces of essence of salts, mixed with a gallon of hot water, be used on the machine parts. A similar preparation is used in many of the trenches in the war zone in Europe and the shells are thrown a much greater distance than under ordinary conditions. The above formula, if passed along free of charge and it is hoped for the reputation of our city that the vets will avail themselves of this information.

READS THE PLAY.

Gustave Frohman Entertains Select Audience at Old Nutter House.

This Saturday morning Gustave Frohman, in the quality of a frustrated old kitchen of the Nutter house on Court street, now the memorial to Thomas Bailey Aldrich, read the scenario for the production of "The Story of a Bad Boy," in motion pictures, before an audience of persons who are deeply interested in the coming production. Among those present was Judge Henry A. Shute of Exeter, the author of the "Diary of a Real Boy," and a party of ladies from the Academy town. Interest in the coming production is daily increasing and local people are beginning to realize that it means a big advertisement for this city, where all of the scenes are laid. As many of the scenes in "The Story of a Bad Boy" are laid in the Nutter house, where Mr. Aldrich passed his boyhood days, no more fitting place for the reading of the scenario could have been selected as it so closely connected the events of the past with the present time.

GERMANY CONTROLS THE SITUATION

Recall of Ambassador Dumba and the Arabic Situation Closely Dovetailed.

(Special to the Herald.)

Washington, Sept. 11.—Germany rather than Austria is expected to decide what the future relations between the United States and those two nations are to be. The Berlin government dominates both the military and civil activities of the dual empires. Because of this state department officers are compiling the Dumba recall and the Arabic situation. They are so closely dovetailed, it is asserted, that either may cause a serious break in diplomatic relations.

The administration plans no further move in the situation. Austria, pending the reply of Vienna to the recall demands, but unless Germany radically modifies her position on the Arabic, a sharp note of protest reaching Berlin will be rushed to Berlin. It is said the president is extremely surprised over the difference in the written words of the Berlin and the oral promises of Von Bernstorff. The suggestion of arbitration is interpreted by him as affecting the principals which the German ambassador has accepted already in his conference with Sec. Lansing.

CURRENT OPINION

China's Unpreparedness More Potent Than Military Strength.

Unpreparedness for war proved China's greatest asset in the recent controversy she had with Japan. After a careful study of the various treaties and negotiations we find that all of Japan's absurd demands on China were denied and that no concessions were made except a few relating to Manchurian affairs, which China has long been willing to grant. Japan was even forced to concede a return of Kiauchau, the fortified vantage which she had won with such sacrifice from Germany.

The reason was not China's military strength, but the fact that China was "unprepared" and relying upon her friends, like the United States and Great Britain, for a fair adjustment of the trouble. China's moral backing was more potent than any military backing she could have had.

It is a fair question whether "unpreparedness" is not as effective as preparedness, when all nations stand together for the spirit of justice and mutual respect.—By Dean Shafter Matthews of Chicago University.

PEACE OFFER IS FLATLY REFUSED BY CARRANZA

Yuma Cruz, Sept. 10.—Gen. Venustiano Carranza, first chief of the constitutional party, has declined to accept the invitation of the diplomatic representatives of the United States and the Latin American countries that he join the leaders of the various factions in Mexico in an endeavor to bring about peace.

The reply to General Carranza, which was handed to John H. Hillman, President Wilson's representative in Mexico, at noon today, said that General Carranza could not consent that the interior affairs of the republic be handled by mediation or by the initiative of any foreign government.

The reply further said that acceptance by General Carranza of the invitation "to attend a conference with chiefs of the rebel factions with a view of returning peace to Mexico would imply profoundly the independence of the republic and would establish the precedent of foreign interference in the determination of its interior affairs."

"The First Chief," it was added, "cannot, by means of any dealings, endanger the fate of the country nor permit the enemies of the cause which he represents, to participate directly in the government."

"Nor does he believe it just nor wise to bring to naught the results of the blood spilled on the republic's soil by following the course which your excellencies courteously and disinterestedly indicate to him, but which he considers erroneous in view of the teachings of our own experience."

"In short, the revolution of 1910, initiated by Don Francisco I. Madero, was not able to fulfill its object because of the pact made at Juarez with the old regime. The treaties then entered into left the enemies of the people still in footing and were one of the principal causes of the tragic events of February, 1913, of which your excellencies are no doubt cognizant, and in the machinations of which no small part was taken by certain foreign ministers accredited to the government of Mexico."

"The assertion is made that General Francisco Villa deserted the Constitutional cause under bribe from a new reactionary movement, taking advantage of the powerful elements which had been entrusted to him by the first chief, and being supported principally by those who had upheld the usurper, Huerta."

"The strike now draws to a close, the reply states. The reactionary faction, broken to pieces, seeks refuge on the northern frontier, retaining in its possession, only the state of Chihuahua; a small part of the state of Sonora; and in the center of the country, the state of Morelos, which will in a short time be occupied by constitutional forces."

"The first chief, with an army of 150,000, at present controls the greater part of the national domain, and in the extensive zone subject to his authority he has re-established all the functions of public administration. He has repaired the lines of communication, railway traffic has been resumed, and in the fields, work in the cities there has been a new movement and animation of normal life."

SIGNS PLANS FOR WARSHIPS

Two of Largest and Most Powerful Ever Designed for U. S. Navy.

Washington, Sept. 11.—Plans for two new battleships authorized by the last congress were signed today by Secretary Daniels. They will be the largest and most powerful warships ever designed for the American navy, and in addition to formidable main batteries of twelve 11-inch rifles each will be provided with new safeguards against torpedo attacks and anti-aircraft guns.

While the navy department will not make public the nature of the invention to protect the dreadnaughts from torpedoes Mr. Daniels said lessons learned from the European war had been given careful consideration by the navy experts who developed the device.

Bids will be opened at the department Nov. 17.

The ships will displace 32,000 tons. They will have four submerged torpedo tubes, second batteries, and 22 five-inch guns and four three-inch rifles for repelling air attacks. The length will be 624 feet overall, breadth 97 feet, eight inches, and draft 30 feet.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to thank Mrs. Matthews' Sunday school class of the North church, for the beautiful floral offering sent us in our recent bereavement.

(Signed)
Mr. and Mrs. Fred F. Johnson.

OPERATORS OVERWORKED.

Members of the Boston Telephone Operator's Union, at a meeting last evening, charge that they are being overworked in consequence of a shortage of operators now existing at various exchanges. The union instructed its members of the joint conference board to take up the matter at its next meeting preparatory to the registering of a complaint with the officials.

It was also declared that there is a lack of credits at a majority of the exchanges.

The recent arrests have stopped the riding of tramps on passenger trains baggage cars.

The new military band with its new leader should make good progress.

THREE GOOD ACTS AT PORTSMOUTH

"The Old Neighborhood" the little sketch playing yesterday and today at the Portsmouth Theatre proved to be one of the kind that takes hold of an audience as there is that something, usually defined as "human interest," running all through the number. McCloud and Fagan, playing the parts of an old and a young Irishman meeting for the first time, the elder man having been a friend of the boy's dead father, put the necessary action into their work that makes it seem true to life. There is sufficient comedy in the act to lighten it up and make it really good.

Neal and Neal offered a novelty acrobatic act that was very well received, as it was new, clever and entertaining. Mr. Neal did some stunts of strength with his teeth that were so far out of the ordinary as to compel the audience to sit up and take notice. "The Stillings," a man and a woman, are two clever lasso players, far better than most of the double musketeers. Their big number, unaccompanied, was one of the best lasso numbers that the patrons had heard in this city. The vaudeville and pictures made up a bill that was well balanced and entertaining.

MEMBERS OF P. A. C. ENJOY THEMSELVES

The Thirtieth Anniversary of the Organization is Celebrated--Married Men Win the Ball Game

The thirtieth anniversary of the Portsmouth Athletic Club has been observed and the members of this popular organization will retain pleasant memories of the same for many days to come. Never in the history of the club were the weather conditions more favorable and this fact served to bring out an unusually large number of members to enjoy the well arranged program of the day. Ample preparations had been made at Rand's Grove for the entertainment of the members and there was not a dull moment as everyone seemed to try to make the outing one of enjoyment for others as well as themselves.

The naval band under Director Ralph Reinewahl, furnished pleasing music during the afternoon.

The clambake, which was prepared and served under the direction of Haywood B. Burton, was done to a turn and the 200 members present did ample justice to the same. After the inner man had been amply satisfied the remainder of the afternoon was devoted to the ball game and other sports.

The annual ball game between the married and single men was hotly contested and most of the members were surprised when the married men walked away with the game by a 5 to 2 score. Ira Newick, who for several seasons has been a mainstay in the P. A. C. team line-up, did great work on the mound, Walter Woods playing behind the bat. It was mainly through the work of the battery that the game was won. Bill Woods played his usual fast game in the outfield for the winners while Bill Brackett and Doc Tredick starred for the bachelors.

The score:

Innings 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 R H E
Married Men 2 0 0 0 3 0—5 7 2
Single Men 0 0 0 1 0 1—2 4 4

Batteries: Newick and Walter Woods; Leary and Ralph Brackett. The field sports were as interesting as the ball game and were well contested. The results were as follows: 100 yard dash, won by Doc Tredick, second, Walter Woods.

Running Broad Jump, won by Tredick, Will Brackett second.

Pungo hitting, Ralph (Spider) True-man, first; Walter Woods, second.

Shoe race won by Johnnie Mitchell.

The return to the city was made at seven o'clock. The line was headed by the band as they marched up the parade, through the Square to Pleasant Court and to the club house. The men made a good appearance in line headed by President Carter of the club, followed by the winning ball team, all carrying trophies. They were followed by the others. Each of the marching members carried red fire.

At the club a band concert was held and an entertainment followed supper. The committee in charge of the Anniversary outing was President, William J. Carter, chairman, assisted by Dr. Byron P. Staples, William P. Woods, John W. Mitchell, Frank J. Philbrick and Augustine Dondoro.

NEW RECTOR FOR DOVER

Lancaster Priest May Be Named as Successor to Late Rev. E. J. Walsh, P. R.

It has been announced in Dover that Rev. John J. Bradley, pastor of the St. Patrick's parish, Manchester, has been appointed permanent rector of St. Mary's church of that city to succeed the late Thomas H. O'Reilly, P. R., and that he will assume charge there on Sunday, Sept. 19. The new pastor shortly after his ordination was a curate in the parish to which he now comes as head. Later he served as assistant at Gorham and his first appointment as pastor was at Rochester and in 1905 he took charge of the Southerworth parish where he remained until 1909.

Though no announcement has been made by Bishop Guerin as to the appointment of a rector to succeed the late Rev. Edward J. Walsh, P. R., in this parish, it is thought that the Rev. Alexander Sullivan of Lancaster may receive the appointment for Portsmouth. Father Sullivan has been in charge of the Lancaster parish for nearly 18 years and is one of the best known and efficient men among the clergy of the Manchester diocese.

THE GERMAN ADVANCE THOUGHT ABOUT OVER

Increased Strength of Resistance of Czar's Forces Has Put Halt to En- emy's Progress Into Russian Territory

London, Sept. 10.—The Russian victory at Tarnopol, eastern Galicia, has been followed by another effective blow at the Austrians at Tarnobrzeg, twenty miles further south. In the combined actions more than 15,000 prisoners have been taken, according to Petrograd's report. As was the case at Tarnopol, the Russians were unable to follow the advantage gained at Tarnobrzeg, owing to the inferiority in artillery, and the Austrians were not pushed beyond the line of the river Sereth. Basing its judgment on reports that the Germans are fortifying themselves strongly in the vicinity of Vilna, together with the trend of events on the southern wing of the eastern front, and the slow progress of the Tarnobrzeg action, the British feeling is that cessation of the Austro-German offensive in the east may be at hand. Such a development would spell victory for that faction of the German General Staff which has argued that the lengthening of communications was involving too much risk to warrant a further advance.

Second Russian Success.
Petrograd, Sept. 10.—An official communication made public here announces another big success for the Russians in eastern Galicia. Following their reported victory at Tarnopol, it is stated that southwest of Tarnobrzeg during the seventh and eighth, the Russians took as prisoners 150 officers and 7000 men and that the Tenthons retreated hastily toward the River Strypa. The communication adds that the Russian captures since Sept. 2 on the Sereth front total 333 officers and over 17,000 men and a great quantity of guns.

The text of the communication follows: "On the road to Rayno our troops after an action yesterday (Wednesday) against great enemy forces advancing along the Olkinta-Kiev railway, are holding their advance on positions up the rivers Stabel and Ikwa, where the enemy is supporting his offensive by the most violent artillery fire, which our troops are enduring with the greatest courage.

"In the Sereth district, southwest of Tarnobrzeg, our assumption of the offensive resulted Tuesday in a success as important as that at Tarnopol. During Tuesday and Wednesday we took 150 officers and 7000 men, as well as three guns and thirty-six machine guns. Our losses were unimportant. Wednesday evening the enemy retreated in great haste, pursued by our troops toward the Strypa river.

"Since Sept. 3 our success on the whole front of the river Sereth resulted in the capture by us of 333 officers and over 17,000 men, 14 heavy guns, 10 light guns, 56 machine guns and 15 artillery limbers.

"Altogether our armies are firmly and resolutely carrying out the movement in conformity with the object assigned and contemplating the future with confidence. Our faithful ally, the French army, for fifteen days past, has been bombarding the German front with terrible effect."

British Seize German Town.
London, Sept. 10.—Because of the killing of two British officers near Persia, Persia, and the failure of the Persian Government to punish the tribal chiefs concerned in the affair, who, it is declared, were assisted by Germans, British, a city of upwards of 15,000 population on the Persian Gulf, was occupied by the British without opposition on Aug. 8 according to advices received by Reuter's Telegram Company.

Conditions in Persia are going from bad to worse, the advices add. The Persian Central Telegraph line has been cut since Aug. 15, and the road from Bushire is completely blocked. The gendarmes, it is declared, are unpaid and disheartened and fighting is reported among the tribes outside of Kishan, between Tcheran and Isfahan.

Since the attack on the British consul at Isfahan last month a critical situation has arisen, according to the advices, and steps to be taken in connection with it are the subject of discussion among the Entente Powers.

NO MILITARY GAIN IN RAID

London Paper Says That Zeppelins Have Failed Even to Spread Panic

London, Sept. 10.—The Daily Telegraph in an editorial expressing disappointment at the escape of the Zeppelin raiders and horror at the raids protests that the Germans gained no military advantage whatever and failed even to spread terror among the civilians.

"Indeed," says the Telegraph, "in many places in the London district the spectacle of a Zeppelin high up in the heavens, with searchlights flashing upon it and shells bursting all around, was regarded and even enjoyed as a unique and thrilling experience.

"Other feelings were naturally aroused in neighborhoods where incendiary and explosive bombs fell, but even these caused no panic. The sense of outrage was strong, but of intimidation not a sign."

The answer of the people of London and the London district to these exercises in frightfulness may be given in an episode mentioned in the Manchester Guardian, says the Spectator, in commenting upon the Zeppelin raids of Tuesday and Wednesday nights. "A recruiting sergeant has been addressing crowds from a platform made of debris of ruined houses, and the results have been excellent."

The Daily Mirror says the reply of London was a great army of recruits. A large number of volunteers presented themselves at Trafalgar square, this newspaper says, and in every part of the country men flocked to the colors.

The Evening Standard expresses the hope that the British Government will announce its determination to hold the head of the German aircraft service personally responsible for the deaths occasioned by the Zeppelin raids.

The Globe and other newspapers take the view that every raid on London or other English cities should be followed immediately by attacks on such German cities as Cologne, Strassburg, Karlsruhe and Dusseldorf, which are within easy reach of Holfort, France. "It is time this super-superstition was gone," says the Globe.

Italian Fire Effective.
Rome, Sept. 10.—The War Office made public the following official communication from the Italian general headquarters dated Sept. 9:

"In Tyrol and Trentino the enemy has limited his activity to artillery actions, to which our artillery effectively replied. A reconnaissance pushed boldly as far as the enemy's works on the upper Cordevole showed that remarkable damage had been caused by our fire on the Lacorte fort and the Renaz electric plant.

"In the Pizzo basin our artillery forced an enemy column marching toward Pizzo through the Predil Pass to halt and turn back. Another column which by the way of Nusselt, northwest of the Predil Pass, was extending its operations toward the Predil locality, was scattered by our shells.

"On the Carso front there is nothing of importance to report. "The enemy threw many shells into the Monfalcone shipyard, causing another outbreak of fire. He afterward bombarded in an endeavor to prevent the fire being put out. This operation, however, did not succeed."

"Our aeroplanes bombarded yesterday morning the Kutz railroad station east of Santa Lucia, hitting it several times and also damaging the adjacent bridge on the Riez river."

W. C. T. U. NOTES

Miss Lizzie Tapp attended the Rockingham County W. C. T. U. convention at Plaislow yesterday. Reports from the Union and superintendents show much good work done, and a gain of 52 in membership. The county banner was awarded to Northwood for greatest percent gain. Election of officers: Mrs. Lucy Marston was re-elected president; Miss Anna Perkins, who has been secretary for a number of years tendered her resignation, and Mrs. Mahare of Seabrook chosen to fill the vacancy. Treasurer, Mrs. Harriet Lane; vice president, Mrs. H. H. Polter.

The state convention will be held in Somersworth Sept. 15, 16, 17. Miss Anna Gordon will give the address on Thursday evening. Miss Martha Kimball, State president of Suffrage will be one of the speakers at the convention.

CHAPTER X.

A General Jail Delivery.

Meantime Neal, incensed at the assault, either intended or accidental, upon Annette, was following his man across country. Hernandez was lean and agile and he kept well in the lead. At the railroad, obeying some sudden impulse, he turned and swung on down the tracks. Here he was at a disadvantage. Neal was accustomed to leaping railroad ties, two at a leap.

By this time, however, they had reached the bridge—a bridge over the inlet to the north of the town. Hernandez darted out upon it with Neal immediately behind him, but just as Neal was about to clutch him from behind, Hernandez twitched aside and leaped to the waters of the inlet far beneath.

Neal followed suit. Both men swam to shore and Hernandez, realizing for the first time that he was followed by one man and not two, now changed his tactics. He stood upon the shore and waited until Neal came up. Then with a sudden rush he darted forward and planted a murderous blow in the direction of Neal's chin.

When the blow was delivered Neal's chin was not there, nor was Neal, but he was not far away. He ducked and countered with his left, striking Hernandez full upon the throat.

At that instant something small and dark and fat leaped out of the darkness, drew a poniard, and before Neal could even turn, had cut a gasp—a deep gasp—in Neal's shoulder.

This new assailant was Ponto.

And then all three heard a sound upon the bridge. All three looked up. There in the moonlight, running full tilt toward them, was a squad of uniformed men.

Ponto and Hernandez took to their heels and ran, but Neal in that instant leaped upon them from behind, clutched each man with one hand.

"Come on, boys," he yelled, panting, "Evo got them. Come."

Meantime Mrs. Hardin had succeeded in getting Annette back into the cottage. Annette had been somewhat injured by the violence of her fall.

but it was that that shock that affected her the most.

"It was that big wild man," she kept exclaiming, with terror shining from her eyes. "It was his face—his face." She looked up suddenly. "His face," she kept repeating. "Where have I seen his face before?"

Waiting doesn't pay. If you neglect kidney backache, urinary troubles often follow.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for kidney backache, and for other kidney ills. Portsmouth citizens endorse them.

Mrs. Arthur M. Morrison, 59 Gates street, Portsmouth, says: "I had pains in my back and sides. My kidneys were weak and often I had nervous and dizzy spells. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and it wasn't long before they removed all symptoms of the trouble." (Statement given August 5th, 1908.)

No Kidney Trouble Since.

Over four years later, Mrs. Morrison said: "The benefit Doan's Kidney Pills gave me years ago has been permanent. I still recommend them as highly as ever."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Morrison has twice publicly recommended. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

in uniform appeared in the doorway, removed his cap and entered.

Neal, pale-faced, but with flashing eyes, stalked in at his side. Annette uttered a cry of dismay. Neal's white shirt was drenched with blood.

Ten minutes later Hernandez and Ponto were safely under lock and key—the only prisoners in the town jail. "Three hours later, just as the moon went down, a huge figure cautiously crept up toward the barred window of the jail. It lifted its hands high above its head, grasped the bars and drew itself up until it could peer within.

"Break, brute," Hernandez, commanded softly. "Tear them up by the roots. Get us out of this."

Five minutes later these three ill-assorted figures crept noiselessly, stealthily into the shadows of the night and disappeared.

BOSTON LETTER

Boston, Sept. 11.—One of the most advanced steps taken by the Massachusetts Militia in the general movement of preparedness will be, according to Adjutant General Charles H. Cole, that of tomorrow, when the Second Corps of Cadets will go into camp at Buxford as field artillery. September 3, the Cadets, who have been for years a body of infantry, became a battalion of field artillery under an order issued by Governor Walsh as commander-in-chief.

Though retaining the name Cadets, they will form a much more important unit of the State forces than in the past. More field artillery in the militia has long been urged by the war department at Washington.

In fact it was General Mills' report emphasizing this need which inspired Adjutant General Cole to make every effort to increase the field artillery of Massachusetts. When the suggestion was made to the Second Corps of Cadets it was promptly followed. Major Thordike D. Howe, formerly captain of Battery C, 1st Battalion Field Artillery of Lawrence, is head of the corps. "There is no more efficient field artillery office in the militia of any state than Major Howe, according to Adj. General Cole, he has won the admiration and confidence not only of the Massachusetts Militia, but has been praised by the war department, which has commissioned him a major in the field artillery of the United States Volunteers, which would be organized in this country were to engage in war.

The Second Corps of Cadets now consists of three batteries of field artillery instead of four companies of infantry. The camp, which will open Sunday, will continue for eight days. It will be more of a school of instruction than a camp. The fact that the war department has assigned its regular officers as instructors shows the keen interest the National government has in the success of the project. If the camp meets with their approval the corps will receive from the government equipment and material to the value of $200,000 without even an indirect tax charged to the state.

Boston, Sept. 11.—Dr. William H. Devine, former surgeon-general of the Massachusetts militia, has been appointed director of school physicians of Boston. He will have charge of 40 physicians and 45 nurses in the medical department, and also of the military drill of the high schools. Dr. Devine is a resident of South Boston. He was graduated from the Harvard Medical school in 1883. He joined the militia as assistant surgeon of the Ninth Regiment. A few years later he became medical director of the Second Brigade, but during the Spanish war joined the regular army as a brigade surgeon. In 1902 he retired from the militia with the rank of colonel.

Boston, Sept. 11.—"New England ministers must keep up their reading and be in touch with the thought of the times," points out Miss Pillsbury, librarian of the General Theological Library, No. 53 Mt. Vernon street. "The library offers to send to any minister in New England free, two books a month, with postage paid both ways. There are now over eighteen hundred ministers thus using books chosen from our lists."

Boston, Sept. 11.—That "business is the life of a commercial state and is a term expressive of the form of activity which keeps men upon the earth," was the declaration of ex-Congressman McCall before the employees of the American Loan and Trust Co. "The State should encourage in every proper way enterprise, industry and honesty among its people. To do otherwise is to act to their general detriment. As I have previously said, business is entitled to a square deal from the State and a square deal it shall have from me, whether it shall support me for office or not. I do not care how industriously men pursue their callings if they only pursue them honestly."

FROHMAN BACK READY FOR HARD WORK

RETURNS TO PORTSMOUTH TO COMPLETE PLANS FOR 'BIG PICTURE'

Gustave Frohman, the promoter of the "Story of a Bad Boy" photo play has returned to Portsmouth after a ten day stay in New York and New Jersey. Mr. Frohman is now more enthusiastic over the expectations of the project than when he left here the first of the month. He is looking at this great film from every possible angle; the educational value, its value to the average person who is interested in the "movies" only from the amusement side; the placing of Portsmouth on the "movie" map, and the love of accomplishing something bigger and better than he has yet done. He said last evening that he had a number of things to tell that would interest the people of Portsmouth about his trip and his plans for the big picture that have developed while he was away.

While in Boston he was interviewed by a member of the staff of the "Christian Science Monitor," the following being an extract which was published in that paper:

"For the educational film there is a great future. It is not even unlikely that the picture can be made to promote certain educational system, or systems of instruction. But you must give always your audience plenty of amusement along with instruction. Keep them interested by keeping them amused, and remember that the film has an art of its own, the details of which it must work out of itself not to the permanent detriment of any other form of art, but to a cooperative improvement in its own and all."

After the work on "The Story of a Bad Boy" is well started, Mr. Frohman intends to get at several other photo-plays staged and built in Portsmouth, historical facts and legends being worked into them. Although he has probably not rested a moment since his departure, he said last evening that he felt in fine form and was ready to get down to a lot of hard work.

MISSING LAD NOT FOUND

Edward Halfpenny, the seven year old colored boy who disappeared yesterday morning was still missing last evening so far as the police could ascertain. The lad's father reported that he had taken the boy with him in the morning as he was fishing along the waterfront from a wharf. He said he left the boy for a few minutes and when he returned the lad was missing. The search for the lost boy was continued throughout the day but without result.

FOR CHEERS GERMAN AIRMAN

London, Sept. 18.—The following story of a German airplane's flight to save his blazing machine and his life is told in a letter by an artillery officer:

"A German was flying about and there was a small British machine just below him. We opened a hot fire on the German. Our machine rose until it was well above the German. Then it raced after him at a tremendous rate. As soon as our aeroplane was overhead it dropped a bomb which captured the German machine and set fire to it. One German fell out but the pilot kept his head and made the machine, which was upside down and covered with fire, plane towards his own lines until the ladder was burned away.

"Even then he kept it plunging. He unstrapped himself and jumped out when forty feet from the ground. Unfortunately he was killed. He was a brave man and deserved to live. His machine came down about two hundred yards beyond our infantry. The place for miles around rang with cheers. All the artillery saw it and so did the infantry in the trenches.

SPIES AND THEIR PAY

A spy who really takes an interest in his work and makes himself useful and trustworthy to the government that employs him—or her—may often have a remunerative, if not exactly a pleasant time. A regular accredited German agent in Europe may expect at least $2600 a year. Germany, which is recognized as the country which makes the most use of espionage has a system of bonuses to encourage the spy and spur him on to greater efforts. Germany spends enormous sums annually in an attempt to discover the plans and intentions of other governments. German secret service agents are found in the most unlooked for places.

Russia's expenditure runs close to that of Germany, and her system is agreed to be the finest in the world. Russian spies have figured in novels, and France and Austria-Hungary spend about $300,000 and $200,000 respectively for the same purpose, but it is not brought to such a pitch of perfection as in Russia. Italy devotes $500,000 for her secret service, but this amount is divided by the Ministry of the Interior as follows: For secret service, $200,000; for police rewards $120,000; for detective service at home and abroad, $230,000.

Spying is looked upon as a fine art in Japan, which runs Germany close for the world's championship in getting close to other nations' secrets. Orientals are noted for their patience and they bring to this work a never-failing store of it. This, together with their ingenuity—in some cases cunning—makes them remarkably effective spies. The war in Manchuria gave a striking example of the value of the work done by Japanese secret service agents.

In England the service is principally controlled by the Intelligence Department of the Admiralty and War Office and has in recent years been raised to the high standard of perfection credited to Russia and Japan.

To most foreigners spying is simply business, a profession to be entered like any other, and to be paid as well as other dangerous professions. Requiring skill and courage. When women take up the profession they generally make better spies than men.

NEW CABINET FOR RUSSIA

COUNCIL OF MINISTERS EXPECTED TO REPORT TODAY—NO FURTHER TALK OF PROROGATION.

Petrograd, via London, Sept. 10.—Consultations regarding the forming of a new cabinet are in progress. Empowered by the Council of Ministers, M. Cherbatoff, minister of the interior; M. Khovostoff, minister of justice, and M. Kharitonov, the comptroller, are consulting leaders of the parliamentary majority on the subject. M. Kriyoshehn, minister of agriculture, is in consultation with the Moscow industrial interests on the same matter. The cabinet members deputed to hold these conferences are expected to report to the Council of Ministers tomorrow. The public is awaiting with keen interest the result of these conferences. Several ministers in newspaper interviews have repudiated the idea that they would cling to office from personal ambition. There is no further talk of an immediate prorogation of the Duma. Everything hinges upon the question of a reorganization of the industry.

GRANGE DAY AT HAMPTON

Friday was Agricultural and Grange Day at the Hampton Beach Carnival and many were attracted from the surrounding towns. There were competitive parades of the firemen, granges and various industries. The Hampton Fire Department won first prize and the Beach department second. Ocean-side Grange of Hampton received $50 in gold for the best grange float. A. J. Johnson of Exeter was first in the Industrial Parade. In the three legged race, O'Leary of Dorchester and Murphy of Somerville were first and Wilkinson of Boston and O'Brien of Haverhill second. Prebuck of Newburyport won the sack race and Le Fabre of Lowell was second.

In the awards for the best decorations, George Ashworth of Lawrence won in the hotels division, and J. F. James of Lawrence won in the cottages division.

Friday afternoon in Convention Hall there were exhibits and a varied program under the direction of the Extension Department of New Hampshire State College was given.

Band concerts, illuminations, confetti battles and fireworks also were in the day's program.

Today is Ping Day and besides patriotic features there will be a ball game and a Charlie Chaplin parade.

SLICK STRANGER PASSES A BAD CHECK

Had Previously Worked the Same Game in Dover.

A slick stranger giving the name of John A. Sullivan passed a worth- less check for $25 at the bottling es- tablishment of Andrew O. Caswell a few days ago. The stranger called at Mr. Caswell's place of business and stated that he resided on Love lane, Kittery, and that a friend of his was to be married. He ordered goods to the amount of $11 and ten- dered a check for $25, to which was signed the name of Fred C. Spaulley of Dover, who also conducts a mar- ble and granite business in this city. He received the balance in money and directed that the goods be sent by Billings' express the following day. After making the purchase the fellow stood and talked for some time, be- ing apparently in no haste. On the following day the goods were sent as ordered, but the expressman later telephoned that he could find no such party at the address given, and asking what to do about the goods.

Mr. Caswell began to be suspicious and telephoned to Mr. Smallley at Dover about the check and he was informed by the latter that during his absence some one had broken in and stolen 15 blank checks from his check book.

He also learned that a check of a similar amount made payable to the same party had been cashed by James E. Dennis of Dover, practically the same methods being employed as in this city.

The police of Dover and this city are trying to apprehend the party guilty of forgery.

WALLACE GETS APPOINTMENT

Will Succeed Fred A. Gray as Member of Police Board.

The long looked for appointment of police commissioner for this city to succeed Fred A. Gray came on Friday when the Governor and council named George B. Wallace as a member and the appointment met with general approval. Mr. Wallace should make a valuable man in the position. He has had much experience in public affairs, having served as repre- sentative to the legislature and on the board of aldermen. It is safe to say he will not be found wanting in his duties at all times and the governor and council made no mistake in the selection. He holds office for a term of three years.

The Exeter commission was changed by the removal of Samuel W. Langley. Hon. Edwin G. Eastman, ex-Attorney General, was named to the commission for three years and Arthur O. Fuller to fill the unexpired term of Mr. Langley.

PERHAPS you, too, hear the call of the Derby this season.

Men who are most critical are swinging away from the care- fully careless "just dropped into town" air in their clothes and are going in for more dressy effects.

The Derby is the Stetson Self-con- forming—feather- weight, crisp but elastic— fits the head like a soft hat and feels like a familiar friend at the first wearing.

IN THE SOUTH

Since the first of the year six Southern Legislatures in one or both of their Houses have given a majority to the equal suffrage movement. In three of these Legislatures, those of West Virginia, Tennessee, and Arkansas, the amendment not only received a majority but passed both Houses. In the other three, Alabama, Florida and Texas, the amendment was pre- vented from passing by the handicap of needing more than a majority. Who said anything about the Solid South?
